

Too noisy , too many do not want to go , it is a waste of time and money . If you have moved or disabled party leave for labor , it will lead to environmental pollution . We need to protect our planet. Pay attention to what you are buying. I understand that we all have a budget, but in today's world, you also have OPTIONS. Find a happy medium for house-hold goods, and if nothing else, make an effort to purchase goods and clothing that are made in sustainable ways, from companies who are mindful of what they produce and how. Buy paper products made from recycled goods, etc.. Research what kind of things you buy from where and if there are better alternatives that are close in price. It DOES matter. Your choices matter and directly impact the market for these goods. There are even environmentally friendly companies for beer. New Belgium Brewery out of Fort Collins, CO is consistently on the lists of best companies for the environment. Keep these companies afloat AND become a more mindful consumer. Don't waste water. Don't you know it's better for your hair the less you wash it? Don't run the dishwasher with nothing in it. Don't flush the toilet unnecessarily. There are people on the planet with no water to drink, yet we waste water at an alarming rate. Call me a hippy, but if it's yellow, let it mellow. If it's brown, flush it down. Don't waste gallons of fresh water unnecessarily. And stop making excuses. Don't expect the rest of the world to make good choices to make up for yours. YOU MATTER. What you buy and consume matters, and it directly affects the rest of the world. Don't expect all the 'hippies' to eat organic and locally, or even worse, don't just decide it's not worth trying. It IS. Even if you don't care about the people of the planet (we've done this to ourselves), at least make an effort for the animals. THEY DESERVE BETTER! The animals of this planet do not deserve to go extinct because of OUR poor choices and lack of caring. Be a leader. People around you, people you work with, and your friends will see you changing aspects of your lifestyle to be more mindful of what we are doing to the planet. Take responsibility for being a citizen of the Earth, and don't expect "others" to make changes. We all need to do our part and make INFINITELY better decisions, and if this is you, know that you will make a difference to the people in your life. It isn't easy, it isn't cheap, and it can be time-consuming to figure out what the best choices actually are, but it's worth it. Just because other people don't care doesn't mean we should just throw our hands up.
