

Task 1: Hello Alex. I am Anna. Nice to know you. I am 19 years old. I have two sister, one is older and one is younger. However, I am living with only one of my sister, because my older sister moved out with her husband last year. I like listening to music in my free time, and i also prefer singing. Playing guitar and chatting with friends is also in my favorite list. That is the information about me, please share your's. Love, Anna

Task 2: The moon and the space are now becoming more popular thank to the development of aeronautics. People always want to explore new thing, and the well-known places are usually too crowed during the holiday. Therefore, believe that soon in the future it will be a luxury popular destination for holiday. Firstly, considering the travel trend nowadays, people want to adventure new places which has not been discovered. With this new trend, the moon and the space perfectly fit the requirements. Especially, when the space is still a big mystery for human to explore, it will be a super attractive destination in the future. Secondly, in the situation when all popular places are full in the holiday, people want to find another places which is less crowed but still meet their interest. For example, this summer, people in Vietnam recently travel to places which are less well known but are beautiful in its own way like Ly Son island. Therefore, the moon and the space would definitely be potential holiday destination. However, the moon and the space are not easily accessible for everybody. It is noticeable that, a trip to the space is extremely expensive, and only billionaires can afford that. In conclusion, the moon and the space promise to be attractive places to travel for holiday in the future. However, whether it will be available for everybody depends on the development of aeronautics.
