

Task 1: Dear Eric, thank you very much for your assistance. Tonight I would like to eat fish because you cook with it well. I also want to eat some vegetables. Can you make a chicken salad for me? I certainly your dish must be very delicious and our meal will be wonderful. After finishing my work, I will come back home and be home at 6 p.m. Thank again and see you soon.

Task 2: I had a great childhood and one of the most precious memories of my life was visiting the zoo in my childhood. While I disagree with the statement it's bad to keep animals in zoos. First of all, The most useful purpose of a zoo is to educate people, especially children. Children who visit a zoo get the chances to know about different animals and can broaden their perspective. From my experience I can say that zoos are educational for young and adults as well. A zoo is one of the best places for family to go for a short trip. Furthermore, many animals kept in a zoo get good care and researches show that saving endangered animals is one of the main purposes of many zoos nowadays. In my opinion if proper environment, care, food and treatment are ensured for animals kept in a zoo, it can further improve the true purpose of a zoo. To conclude, some of the traditional zoos with limited area, fewer staffs and less facilities should be changed to bigger and better zoos. A zoo has many useful purposes including educating people and safeguarding endangered animals though keeping animals in a zoo actually takes away their freedom.