

TASK 1 I've read your note, Spencer. There is a restaurant near my house called The Blue. Let's eat there. I have to do the housework this afternoon so can we meet at 7.00 p.m. There is a car park next to the restaurant so that you can park your car there. I'll be on time. See you there. Quynh.

TASK 2 Travelling alone DOES bring us a lot of benefits. Firstly, you can visit anywhere you want without asking the opinions of the others. The places you go are based on your own interests so that you can do everything you want and nothing you don't want. Secondly, travelling alone helps us to learn more about ourselves and discover ourselves. Once you set off on a solo journey, you start to discover yourself: things you are capable of, things you are afraid of. Thirdly, we can indulge in anything we want without being judged because not everyone has the same personality. Being alone, you can be free and be yourself and there's no need to care about your company's feeling. Finally, when travelling alone, you can make new friends who have the same hobby as yours. I've noticed that when I'm on my own on the road, I'm more eager to chat with others, meet up with other travellers and generally reach out more in order to socialize. To sum up, there are a lot of reasons why you should travel alone. So, let's pack up our luggage and start our solo trip right now!
