

Task 1 Dear Binh, Last week I saw Ho Ngoc Ha in Hanoi, on Ta Hien Street. I was there with my friends to have some beer, and go to Hoan Kiem Lake to take some photos with foreigners. Then I suddenly caught her eating an ice-cream. She looked so fabulous and chic. I was thinking, "Gosh, did you see? That is Ho Ngoc Ha, my goddess, I finally see her in person!" I felt so happy, and that was definitely one of my most memorable moments in my life. How about you? Have you ever seen your idol in person? Let me know soon. Love, Nhung

Task 2 There are many ways to communicate with people in your society such as writing letters and sending emails. However, I personally think that making phone calls is the best way to keep in touch with the others for some following reasons. Firstly, using mobile phones to make phone calls is undoubtedly convenient. Mobile phones are small and easy to bring along, so that we can call our friends, our family and relatives in anytime and anywhere we want to. In addition, making phone calls by mobile phones requires less steps and than writing letters and sending emails, while writing letters and sending emails need certain equipment such as papers, pens and laptops, which are not neat and handy. All you need to do is to choose the phone numbers, then press the dial button and you will immediately reach the person who you need to contact. Finally, making phone calls is the best way to express your feelings. Hearing other people's voices with intonation, stress and how they and how they breathe will make you get their ideas, their emotion clearly and more effective than seeing words on letters and emails. In conclusion, communicating with people by mobile phones is dramatically effective nowadays. From my perspective, the above reasons can ensure that idea.
