Task 2: Many people have the opinion : "A successful film only needs famous actors". To me, it is wrong because of many reasons. The film is good when it has interesting substance. If the substance is boring, no one wants to watch even when the film has famous actors. The actors always have the actions like they have to do in the direction. They can't do what they want if the director doesn't allow. Therefore, the director is the one that has the most influence to the film. They have the ideas, they show the actors how they have to act, they make the film. The film is also based on the nice scenes and the good cooperation of all the actors in that film. The film is good when the actors act well. However, the actors who are famous definitely are the people acting well in films and have the good looks. It may create a bit influence to the film. The film may get more attention from actors' fans. The actors are more famous, the more attention. Besides, a successful film needs the wonderful meaning that hides from all situation in that film. That is what the director wants to send to everyone watching the film. Because of that many reasons, the film needs many different things to be a successful film.
