

Task 1: Dear Eric, It is very nice of you to make the dinner today. I prefer meat, please. I also want to eat cabbages for vegetables. In case you are allergic to cabbage or you don't like it, you can change to broccoli. Today, I will finish work at 5pm, so I will arrive home at about 6pm. Thank you very much. Best wishes, Hi?

Task 2: Animals are kept in the zoo, so children can visit and watch them. There is no good to keep these creatures in cages. In this essay, I will give you some reasons for this problem. Firstly, wild animals keeping long time in cages will lose their wild behaviors. Big animals like tiger and lion can not run in big cages, they only can walk. Apes like monkey only can climb to small branches, not like the big trees in the jungles. They are fed by the human, which means that they will lose ability to search for food in the jungle. Instead of feeding predators like panther and cheetah with big pieces of meat, they should be fed of small animals like a rabbit, so they can not lose their abilities of chasing and catching food. Secondly, animals are having many dangers from visitors. Sometimes, visitors give them food such as snacks, this may cause a big problem to their digestion system. They may become ill, or die. Besides, visitors can make them become mad, which is very dangerous. Moreover, apes like monkey can copy behaviors from human. In conclusion, keeping animals in zoos may change their behaviors and it can be dangerous for them. In my opinion, you shouldn't keep these wild animals in zoos.
