

Travelling alone brings us a lot of benefits. Because the first when traveling alone, you do not need to follow any principle of a group or individual. You can freely enjoy private time in the way that you want, do what you love to do. The second you can eat what you like, unlike traveling with family