

Task1: dear Paul, i am very glad to visit you on this Saturday. i decide to travel by taxi from 8 a.m. Maybe it will take 2 hours to get your home so let's see you at 10 a.m. i would like to visit some historical places near your house and go fishing at the evening. It must be interesting! see you later. Love, Cuc

Task 2: Today there are a lot of amazing movies that attract people all around the world. It is undeniable that these films use many special effects because of some following reasons. in the first place, effects create a plenty of beautiful senses. they put more light or sound into the films depending on different situations. secondly, these effects help audiences to feel everything more lively and realistic. It encourages the watchers to imagine and join in the film. in the history of movies industry, there has been a ton of masterpieces films that made huge profits thanks to their successful effects. for example, titanic, shot specifically for this film by director James cameron. although that almost pales by comparison to the special effects used during the last half of the movie as the ship is sinking. the 200 million dollar price tag is certainly evident on the screen. both in the long shot where we get to see the great ship break up, and in the interior shot that were done in giant flooded tanks. It is undoubted that the special effects decide the success or failure of almost films. We can enjoy them more and more due to the development of technology and modern devices.
