

dear my new penfriend, i am twenty years old, and tomorrow is my birthday. because i don't have any brother or sister. so do you want to be the one. i hope you will say yes. although i never met you before but i always want to have a brother. i like dancing, football, tennis, badminton, surfing, read novel book, play videogames, cooking and many things more. i want to see you someday. love you. task 2 i always agree to that opinion. because long times ago man dream to go to the moon. and now people can do that and it too easy. so if people can go to the moon. why they don't build a place to every man and woman can go to there to get a holiday. it will be very popular because it is new. man really want to discover something they don't know. like the ocean, people really scare it. but when they understand, they have built many building under the sea. the space don't have gravity, so man can jump as high as possible. it looks like that they can fly. it really many people's dream.
