Task 2 : The friendship as ties of emotion plays a vital role in our lives. It is can not imagine that the feeling is so lonely without friends. Personally, I consider that friends like the soul mate and the friendship is an important emotion to everyone. It is not denied that the friends give us help is far exceed our imagination. For instance, we always feel that the friends can give us a hand when we get some troubles. In fact, I underwent this kind of experience when I was far away from my hometown. To be honest, I remember that I felt very confused when I came here in the few weeks. Fortunately, I made few friends in my dormitory and they gave much more help to me. Even though some of my friends have already come back to their country, we are still keeping touch online. That is why I think that the friendship is necessary in our lives. The importances of friendship include the support and encourage, whatever physical and psychological. For instance, there are a lot of patients, they need much more concern, especially the concerns of friends. Because most of time the patients will have the sense of helpless and upset, they really need a great deal of help to support them. Hence, if their friends can accompany to them, they will feel much better. Therefore I consider that the friendship is an important emotion to us.
