I think the opinion "a successful film only needs famous actors" is not right. I think a successful film also need a Attractive and interesting scripts, because this is basic things to create a successful film. "Forever young" is the film I have ever sent and like it although actors is not famous . But then that film is attact many viewers and actors became famous from that film.